STILLWATER

Surrounded by spectacular scenery, our sparkling lakes offer excellent fishing. Each stillwater has its own secrets that help provide endless challenges. While most of our lakes are catch and release, your memories are yours to cherish for a lifetime.

Otter, Muskrat, Beaver and Squirrel ponds

Range in size from half to three-quarters of an acre.

The stillwaters of Otter, Muskrat, Beaver and Squirrel are the ideal learning ground for beginners. Each spring-fed coldwater fishery supports many trophy-sized trout large enough to excite even the most seasoned fly fisher. You are permitted to take two trout per visit from these ponds.

Turtle and Rainbow lakes

Turtle Lake measures four acres and Rainbow Lake measures one and a half acres.

In the cool waters of Turtle and Rainbow lakes, abundant numbers of hungry trout, largemouth bass, bluegill and pumpkinseed thrive. These fish provide a challenge to any fisher and a test for their equipment when they're finally hooked.

Clay Pigeon pond

Clay Pigeon pond measures three acres.

Clay Pigeon pond located at Seven Springs Sporting Clays is a guided fishing lake where you can learn and improve your stillwater skills while fishing for trout and sunfish.

Gosling and Splitrock lakes

Lake Gosling measures seven acres and Splitrock measures half an acre.

Lakes Gosling and Splitrock are fed by strong springs and run-off waters, making these cool waters the perfect habitat for trout and hybrid stripers to feed and mature. These lakes are the ideal places for you to learn and improve your stillwater skills over big trout.
